

26. The Declaration of Independence

Americans declared themselves independent from Great Britain in 1776. Thomas Jefferson wrote the Declaration of Independence. Delegates from America's 13 colonies signed them on July 4. The document declared that the British Parliament and King George III they hadn't no right to treat the American people unfairly with regard to trade civil rights, and military service. The United States of america is born. Americans still had to fight to keep their country. They won their war of independence five years later. Today the fourth of July is a holiday.

In 1776, delegates from America's 13 colonies signed the Declaration of Independence. America won its independence in 1783, when Great Britain signed a treaty ending the Revolutionary War.

Find the 10 errors in this activity. There are no errors in the illustration or the caption.

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---

---